Call for Applications 2016

Interim jobs for female Master's graduates, doctoral candidates and postdocs

with immediate effect // last updated December 2016

With the creation of interim jobs, the University of Cologne wants to help young women academics to bridge the gap between two longer-term employment relationships that can ensue from the transition between two qualification levels or two research projects. Funding is available for outstanding female scientists and scholars without a job, or whose current job is about to expire. However, applicants must have concrete prospects for longer-term employment at the UoC in the near future. The programme is limited to the calendar year 2016.
